

2025 Report: Measuring Abuse Prevention and Safe Environment Programs as Reported Online in Diocesan Policies and Practices

Measuring and Ranking Diocesan Safe Environment Programs: 2025

In this 2025 review, Voice of the Faithful (VOTF) examines U.S. diocesan website postings for conformity to safeguarding principles that have been established by the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops (USCCB).

From early in the 21st Century, the USCCB enhanced their safeguarding strategies to prevent child sexual abuse within the Catholic Church. These efforts, a response to the revelations of clergy sexual abuse of children and cover up of that abuse, continue to be an important part of rebuilding trust in our diocesan leadership.

Safeguarding strategies utilized in the U.S. Catholic Church are mandated by the Charter for the Protection of Children (Charter) and The Essential Norms (Norms) that are known as standards. These documents have been revised regularly by the USCCB in the past 25 years. Each year, third-party auditors employed by the USCCB review the protocols found in diocesan safeguarding policies and procedures for compliance with these USCCB standards. Summarized results from the on-site and self-reporting data collection audits are used to verify that dioceses are meeting the mandated standards for child safeguarding.

The Charter and the Norms direct dioceses to establish and maintain child protection initiatives that establish screening and selection processes for all employees and volunteers; set training for clergy, employees and volunteers on prevention of child sexual abuse; establish procedures for responding to allegations or suspicions of abuse; and establish and maintain secure physical environments.

To strengthen safeguarding, the Catholic Church also has implemented many measures in the area of law and justice. For example, the Code of Canon Law has undergone several revisions, and numerous diocesan regulations on dealing with abuse have been put into effect. Comprehensive concepts and prevention regulations have been both created and declared binding. Establishing such standards and regulations is critical as a foundation for ensuring the safety of children entrusted to ministers of the faith. Equally important is ensuring that those requirements are maintained and that penalties apply when they fail.

While adhering to the letter of the law (as described above) is essential, it is not enough. Jesus called for compliance with the law (Mt 5:17-19) but also that the law be fulfilled. This fulfillment is essentially about the inner personal attitude of the person who obeys the law. As Jesus explains, this personal attitude helps to avoid hiding behind the letter of the law.

Ongoing Need for Safeguarding

The Church's commitment to abuse prevention, the resources it allocates to prevention procedures, and the diocesan policies that ensure child safeguarding can be measured by adherence to the established standards. This commitment to safeguarding goes beyond a reaction to past abuse. It also embraces actions of prevention, education, and verification. Maintaining this commitment is a key element of accountability for survivors of clerical sexual abuse. And verification of ongoing safety policies and procedures protects against further abuse.

The need for continued monitoring of abuse prevention efforts within the U.S. Catholic Church remains a high priority that never diminishes. Awareness of this need must remain a primary focus within the Catholic Church. If we fail to maintain active awareness, our indifference will put children at risk for abuse.

Review Process

The Protection of Children (POC) team of VOTF has concluded its third review of U.S. Catholic diocesan websites for abuse prevention and child protection measures. Prior to the start of the review, VOTF notified all U.S. diocesan leaders by letter. Two independent reviewers then examined 177 diocesan websites between June 1 and August 30, 2025; all diocesan websites were reviewed during that timeframe.

The reviewers utilized the POC Worksheet for 2025, which can be found in Appendix A. Following the format of previous POC Review Worksheets, this questionnaire was organized into 10 Categories. The Categories on the 2025 Worksheet are the same as in previous reviews, but there were minor changes to questions from the previously used Worksheets:

- ❖ Two questions were eliminated.
- ❖ Three new questions were added.
- ❖ Minor wording changes were made to questions in four Categories for clarification.

The total points assigned to each Category were also revised (see Table 1) while retaining the 100-point total. We highlight the importance of four of these categories by assigning each a maximum of 15 points.

Table 1: Questionnaire Categories

Category	Category Name/Description	Category Points
1	Policy	5
2	Codes of Conduct	5
3	Reporting of Abuse	10
4	Background Checks	15
5	Prevention Education & Training	15
6	Contact Information	4
7	Audit Reporting	15
8	Review Boards	15
9	Publication of Names of Clergy Accused of Abuse	10
10	Victim Assistance	6
TOTAL SCORE POSSIBLE		100

Focus on Four Categories

Four Categories on the 2025 Questionnaire carry a maximum total of 15 points each. They focus on essential areas of abuse prevention and lay oversight: Prevention Education and Training; Background Checks; and two Lay Oversight measures called Audits and Review Boards.

The training provided in mandatory Abuse Prevention Education & Training is critical for child-serving organizations to proactively help identify risks, recognize grooming behaviors and establish a culture of safety. Training empowers staff and volunteers to recognize signs of abuse, to learn how to handle disclosures properly, and to fulfill their legal reporting responsibilities.

Background Checks of applicants for positions within a diocese are vital for child-serving organizations to ensure safety. These checks prevent unsuitable individuals from gaining access to children by identifying any criminal histories and serious behavioral concerns in an applicant’s past. These measures also act as deterrents to potential offenders applying for positions working with or around children.

Annual USCCB-sponsored Audits can identify strengths and weaknesses in established diocesan safe environment protocols. Compliance letters from auditors verify participation in the audit and whether the diocese has passed the audit.

Measuring and Ranking Diocesan Safe Environment Programs: 2025

Published information on Diocesan Review Boards (DRBs) provides visibility into the workings of these Boards, such as membership disclosure, meeting frequency, publication of bylaws, and annual tasks of the DRB. The Charter and Norms adopted by the USCCB require every diocese to establish a DRB, and its membership is required to have a majority of lay, non-diocesan employee members. Moreover, publication of member names and credentials, as well as a listing of required annual tasks, provides visibility into compliance with the USCCB requirements for DRBs.

Results and Analysis

Following completion of the independent website reviews of all U.S. diocesan websites, VOTF reconciled all scores to ensure that dioceses received proper credit. Average overall score for the 177 dioceses in the 2025 Review was 66.26, marginally lower than averages found in the 2022 and 2023 VOTF Reviews. Also, the most-frequent score on the 2025 Review is lower than those scores obtained in previous Reviews.

Table 2 – Average Scores and Mode Scores by Report Year

Report Year	Average Score	Most Frequent Score
2022	67.00	63.50
2023	70.50	73.50
2025	66.26	61.50

Full results of the 2025 Review are listed alphabetically by diocese in Appendix B and are listed by Ranked Scores in Appendix C. The diocese of Richmond VA received top score of 92 points. The diocese of Saint Thomas, USVI obtained the lowest score: 35 Points.

Table 3 – Highest and Lowest Scoring Dioceses

Top Scoring Dioceses	2025	2023	Lowest Scoring Dioceses	2025	2023
Richmond VA	92.5	93.0	St. Thomas USVI	35.0	55.5

Detailed Summary—Scoring in Each Category

This Report explores scoring deficiencies and excellences within each of the 10 Categories.

Category 1 – Policy (5 Points):

Average score in this Category was 4.61 out of a possible 5 points.

- ❖ Reviewers searched for posting of a named Diocesan Child Protection, Child Safeguarding, or Safe Environment Policy.
- ❖ Access to Policies: Ease of locating this Policy was also scored.
 - Some Policies were not easily located or required multiple clicks to open.
 - Reviewers searched for a direct link to this Policy either on the diocesan homepage or Child Protection/Safe Environment webpage.
- ❖ Search Engine: Internal search engines enhance navigation within a website. They allow users to easily locate content information.
 - Reviewers did not locate a search engine on the following websites: San Antonio TX, San Angela TX, Shreveport LA, San Bernardino CA, and Marquette MI.
 - With no effective way to search a website, even information that is available on the website may be very difficult to find.
 - Of note, policy information for the diocese of Belleville IL was easily found due in part to a remarkable search engine.
- ❖ Duplicate Policies: In some instances, reviewers found distinct versions of the Safe Environment / Child Protection policy on multiple locations, at times under the same name but with different content. Some policy and policy-revision documents were not dated.
- ❖ Lack of Posted Policy: Reviewers were unable to locate Safe Environment (SE) / Child Protection Policies for seven dioceses: Beaumont TX; Fort Worth TX; Laredo TX; Las Vegas NV; Oklahoma City OK; Saint Thomas USVI; and San Antonio TX.
 - While reviewers located some behavioral guidelines or safety requirements in Codes of Conduct documents, if they found no formally named Child/Youth Protection Policy, they gave no credit in this Category.
 - Of note, the Archdiocese of Anchorage-Juneau AK noted the addition of an addendum to their SE Policy after the diocese received improvement recommendations in a recent USCCB-sponsored Audit compliance letter that is posted on their website.

Measuring and Ranking Diocesan Safe Environment Programs: 2025

Category 2 – Codes of Conduct (5 Points):

Average score was 4.65 out of a possible 5 points.

- ❖ Populations: This Survey assessed whether Codes of Conduct (CoC) were posted for clergy, lay employees, and volunteers.
- ❖ Lack of CoC: Reviewers did not find CoCs on seven diocesan websites: Cincinnati, OH; Corpus Christi, TX; Military Services USA; Reno, NV; Saint Thomas, USVI; Sioux Falls, SD; and Toledo, OH.
 - A few other dioceses only posted CoC's for clergy, while others did not post any Conduct Code concerning volunteers.
- ❖ All six top-scoring dioceses had complete Codes of Conduct for the three populations.
- ❖ Location of CoCs: Reviewers found Codes of Conduct on a wide range of diocesan web pages, such as:
 - Within the Safe Environment Policy as a sub-section.
 - Named “Conduct Policy” and covering the three populations.
 - Individual CoCs for each population in separate documents.
- ❖ One-hundred fifty-seven dioceses posted CoCs for all three populations.
 - Although Oklahoma City OK posted CoCs, reviewers did not find a Safe Environment / Child Protection Policy.
- ❖ Specific or General Terminology: Questions in this Category did not query what is or what should be included in Codes of Conduct for employees and volunteers. Some CoCs contained positive behavioral guidelines while others contained general terms of unacceptable conduct.
 - Reviewers noted that language employed within the CoC for Rapid City SD was very general regarding conduct guidelines.
 - Consistency of content across dioceses would provide clear guidelines.

Category 3 – Reporting Allegations of Abuse (10 Points):

Average score was 9.15 out of a possible 10 points.

- ❖ Mandate to Report Suspected Abuse: Vos estis lux mundi, the motu proprio of Pope Francis, mandates procedural norms for reporting crimes of sexual abuse as well as for cover-up of such crimes when committed by a bishop or head of a religious congregation.
- ❖ There are required diocesan protocols for reporting suspected abuse to both the civil authorities and to the Catholic Bishops Abuse Reporting (CBAR).

Measuring and Ranking Diocesan Safe Environment Programs: 2025

- ❖ Language: Reviewers found that some diocesan postings contained vague language regarding the mandate to report allegations. For example, the word “should” and the phrase “encouraged to report” were included in the mandate language rather than specific directions to do so. Such language can be confusing and may lead to uncertainty regarding the requirement to report all suspected abuse to civil authorities.
 - No credit was awarded to Oakland CA or to St. Augustine FL because their “mandate to report” web pages contained the phrase “should be reported to local authorities” or “should contact local police...”
 - Language posted by two dioceses (Spokane WA and Wheeling-Charleston WV) contained the statements “encouraged to report” or “encourages reporting” to the appropriate civil authorities. No credit was awarded to these dioceses.
- ❖ Catholic Bishops Abuse Reporting (CBAR) is a third-party system that receives reports of sexual abuse or related misconduct by U.S. Catholic bishops.¹ This system facilitates investigations into allegations of abuse.
 - Twenty-four dioceses lacked information about or link to CBAR.
 - The dioceses of Oakland CA, Rockville Centre NY, and Saint Augustine FL did post information about CBAR but no active link to CBAR was found.
 - Reviewers encountered an “Error 404 Bad Link” message on many websites when clicking on the provided hyperlink to CBAR.
 - No credit was awarded when these “bad link” notifications were found.
See Recommendations Section for proposed remediation.
- ❖ Significance: The lack of clear contact information for Reporting Abuse on diocesan websites adds to the institutional betrayal experienced by many survivors of clergy sexual abuse. (See research on this topic, such as work by Judith Freyd²)
 - This betrayal can be layered by imperfect responses by church personnel to allegations of abuse. Difficulty locating reporting information and / or a very delayed response to survivor attempts to report abuse are layering factors of institutional abuse.

Measuring and Ranking Diocesan Safe Environment Programs: 2025

- Clear and current links as well as telephone and email contact information must be maintained to adequately allow the reporting of abuse or the cover up of abuse by church personnel.

Category 4 – Background Checks (15 Points):

Average overall score was 9.53 out of a possible 15 points.

- ❖ Background Criminal History checks are an essential element to build a safe environment program.
- ❖ Screening of applicants: Best practices call for background checks of all clergy, lay employees, and volunteers who work or apply for positions of working in any capacity with or around children.
 - Also sought are requirements of background checks for members of religious communities, international priests, and temporarily assigned parish priests.
- ❖ Frequency: Ongoing Criminal History Record checks are essential screening measures; annual or more frequent Record Checks are best practice.
 - Questions in this Category inquire about diocesan departmental oversight of Record Checks as well as the frequency of running these Background Checks.
 - Some dioceses subscribe to services that automatically screen every employee, volunteer or clergy member on a quarterly basis.
- ❖ Positive Results: Reviewers searched for statements of procedures that apply if a Record Check turns up a criminal record of an applicant who seeks to serve within the diocese.

Category 5 – Prevention Education & Training (15 Points)

Average score was 11.39 out of a possible 15 points.

- ❖ Awareness of tactics utilized by abusers and prevention education are foundational elements within a safe environment program.
- ❖ Five dioceses received perfect scores of 15 points: New Orleans LA; Norwich CT; St. Augustine FL; St. Paul/Minneapolis MN; Washington DC; and Wilmington DE.
 - Seventeen dioceses received scores of 14 points.
- ❖ Best practices call for awareness and prevention training for all clergy, lay employees and adult volunteers who work with or around children, as well as awareness training for children and youth.

Measuring and Ranking Diocesan Safe Environment Programs: 2025

- The 2025 Questionnaire also asked about prevention training for visiting international priests and temporarily assigned priests. Many dioceses did not have clear information about training requirements for those populations.
- An example of inclusive training requirements for these populations was found in the Comprehensive Screening Policy from the Diocese of Norwich CT.
- ❖ Included in the required populations for prevention training were children who attend religious education, Catholic schools, and diocesan-sponsored youth activities.
 - Many dioceses did not include mandated training for youth who attend diocesan-sponsored activities.
- ❖ Significance: These proactive measures establish a culture of safety, accountability, and care within our faith community.

Category 6 – Contact Information (4 Points):

Average score was 3.74 out of a possible 4 points.

- ❖ Contacts: Reviewers searched websites for contact information to a Child Protection or Safe Environment office or ministry, such as a phone number or email address.
- ❖ Filing a public Complaint / Allegation: Reviewers searched the Safe Environment / Child Protection pages and the Safe Environment Policy for posting of contact information to a civil (state, city, or county) authority, such as a department of family and child services, for filing a child abuse complaint.
 - Best Practice: Many dioceses included direct links to these agencies by city or county within their state.
- ❖ Clarity of information: Of note, the Diocese of Brooklyn has distinct offices for divisions or procedures regarding Child and Youth Protection, including an Office of Safe Environment; an Office of Victim Assistance; and an Office for Protection of Our Children, which contains a link to their Child Protection Policy.

Category 7 – Audit Reporting (15 Points):

Average overall score was 3.09 out of a total 15 points.

- ❖ Audits prevent abuse in the Church by uncovering deficiencies in adherence to regulations found in the Charter. Audits also provide recommendations for improvements. Dioceses that fail to report the audit findings may be hiding negative results and comments from those audits. Without clear reporting of the findings, parishioners may not realize their diocese is not in compliance.

- ❖ Reviewers searched for posted findings from the most recent USCCB-sponsored audits and whether the diocese passed the audit.
 - Also sought were posting of the Auditor Compliance Letter and posted responses information that a diocesan bishop has addressed the results.
- ❖ Detail of Scores:
 - One-hundred nineteen dioceses had no website postings on results from the most recent annual USCCB-sponsored Audit conducted by StoneBridge Business Partners and received 0 points.
 - Twenty-six dioceses scored less than 10 points; and 25 dioceses scored 11 or 12 points.
 - Seven dioceses received a perfect score of 15 points in this Category: Buffalo NY; Gaylord MI; Newark NJ; Ogdensburg NY; Scranton PA, Wheeling-Charleston WV; Winona-Rochester MN.
- ❖ Importance of posting Audit result information:
 - Compliance Verification: Audits confirm that dioceses are adhering to the Charter and Norms, including conducting background checks, providing safe environment training to clergy, employees, and volunteers, and establishing working Diocesan Review Boards.
 - Transparency: Public reporting of annual audit results demonstrates accountability to parishioners and the public at large and contributes to restoring trust in the institution.
 - Audit result-reporting by both Wheeling-Charleston WV and Winona-Rochester MN are exemplary.

Category 8 – Diocesan Review Boards (DRB) (15 Points)

Average overall score was 6.59 out of a total 15 points.

- ❖ DRBs are composed primarily of laypeople. DRBs provide independent, expert and confidential advice to Bishops, especially in the evaluation of the credibility, substance, and gravity of accusations of sexual abuse of minors.
- ❖ Reviewers searched for postings of DRB member names, their credentials, a named chairperson, and for the bylaws and annual tasks of the DRB.
- ❖ Also sought was information about whether the DRB reviewed child protection policies and procedures on an annual basis.

Measuring and Ranking Diocesan Safe Environment Programs: 2025

- ❖ Reviewers searched for mention that all abuse allegations are reported to the chair of the DRB or to the entire DRB.
- ❖ Scores of Note:
 - Nine dioceses received full credit: Allentown PA; Arlington VA; Des Moines IA; Harrisburg PA; Lexington KY; Louisville KY; Richmond VA; Salina KS; and Syracuse NY.
 - Ten dioceses did not post any information on their DRB and received 0 points:

Table 4: No Posted Diocesan Review Board Information

Altoona-Johnstown PA	Lubbock TX
Colorado Springs CO	Pittsburgh PA
Fort Worth TX	Pueblo CO
Lafayette LA	Salt Lake City UT
Little Rock AR	Trenton NJ

- ❖ Significance: The USCCB Charter mandates the establishment of DRBs. They provide independent, expert, and consistent oversight of sexual abuse allegations against clergy to ensure accountability and the protection of minors.
 - As a confidential consultative body that advises the bishop on policy matters related to the protection of children, these boards also evaluate evidence of abuse allegations for credibility.
 - Both these responsibilities contribute to safety within the community.
- ❖ Publication of names and pertinent credentials of DRB membership augments the trust, openness, and accountability of the Board's processes. While it is up to a bishop whether to make public the names of the DRB members³, public posting of this information fosters accountability and transparency in the institution and may rebuild trust by healing the effects of institutional betrayal. The USCCB's 2012 resource booklet encourages publication of the names of members.
 - The level of detail provided across diocesan postings of DRB information varies significantly because there is no universal, standard or mandatory procedure to follow.

³ According to the DRB Resource Booklet accessed February 2026 and found on: <https://www.usccb.org/issues-and-action/child-and-youth-protection/upload/2012-Diocesan-Review-Board-Resource.pdf>

Measuring and Ranking Diocesan Safe Environment Programs: 2025

- The posting on the diocese of Des Moines IA website contains an excellent example of full disclosure of DRB information.
- The diocese of Richmond VA has an excellent Policy that includes DRB information and is dated July 2024.
- The diocese of Salina KS posts a helpful Chart in their policy as an example of good documentation of DRB information.

Category 9 – Publication of Names of Clergy Accused of Abuse (10 Points)

Average is 8.84 out of a possible 10 points.

- ❖ Publication adds to the transparency and accountability of the Church and may lead to healing those who have been harmed.
 - Published lists allow for public scrutiny of church actions.
 - Published lists help track serial offenders and can encourage other victims to come forward.
 - Effectiveness of these lists can be questioned for completeness, delay in postings, or failure to include all cases of abuse. The current VOTF Review does not explore these potential weaknesses that may be contained in published lists. See bishopaccountability.org for detailed information on abuser lists.⁴
- ❖ One-hundred fifty-four diocesan websites published Lists that contained the outcome of each allegation, such as dismissal from the priesthood, laicization, or deceased.
- ❖ Significance of Publication: Example of concrete actions.
 - “Christian safeguarding is not limited to wordy confessions about one’s own failures, expressions of shame in view of event, or prayers and liturgical celebrations for victims of abuse. All of this must be proven in concrete action, even when the critical public is not closely following the actions of the Church and its actors.”⁵
- ❖ Posted Lists from five dioceses lacked resolution of each allegation: Great Falls-Billings MT; Rockville Centre NY; Saint Petersburg FL; Venice FL; and Wilmington DE.

Category 10 – Victim Assistance (VAC) (6 Points)

Average score is 4.67 out of a possible 6 points.

- ❖ Access: Reviewers searched an entire diocesan website for contact information of the VAC. The significance of locating this data is to assess ease of access when / if survivors seek support from within a diocese.
 - Additionally, locating the name of a support person propels the process to a personal level.
 - Reviewers did not find contact / name information for VACs on 16 diocesan websites. They are:

Corpus Christi TX	Portland ME	Springfield IL
Dodge City KS	Pueblo CO	Springfield-Cape Girardeau
*Memphis TN	Raleigh NC	Wilmington DE
Newark NJ	^Rockville Centre NY	*Yakima WA

In each of the instances noted in Table 6, the scoring reconciler consulted the list of diocesan VACs posted on the USCCB website to cross-check whether a VAC was named for that diocese (<https://www.usccb.org/node/25794>).

*Memphis TN and *Yakima WA list a Victim Assistance Hotline, but no name or VAC was mentioned.

Raleigh NC lists a phone number for the Victim Assistance Program but no name.

^ Rockville Centre NY: Although the position is mentioned in policy, no name or contact information was found.

Measuring and Ranking Diocesan Safe Environment Programs: 2025

- ❖ The difficulty presented by these deficiencies for survivors and their families was evident to VOTF during the past year when either survivors or a family member contacted VOTF for information on how to contact the VAC in the diocese where their abuse had occurred. Their voice and email messages had been unanswered by the dioceses. This is an example of the many layers encountered in institutional betrayal.
- ❖ Reviewers also searched whether pastoral and counseling services were offered to survivors, families of survivors, and affected parishes or communities.

Recommendations

Policy: The website location for the diocesan Policy for Child Protection has not been studied in detail in this current Survey. The Review process instructions did not delineate boundaries for locating the Policy in any of the VOTF Surveys conducted to date—reviewers could search for the information on any diocesan web pages. Yet frequently the deficiencies in locating a policy made it difficult to address many of the questions on the Worksheet. In many instances, policy location was directly found on the Safe Environment or Child Protection web pages as well as on the homepage. Credit was awarded if the information was found in either place.

To support genuine transparency, dioceses should post each policy document in a single location and remove superseded versions when updates are posted so readers are not left comparing outdated copies. In the future, the POC team plans to explore the varied locations where the information is found.

Codes of Conduct: Codes for clergy, lay employees, and volunteers should be named as such and be searchable on the website. If these documents are contained within a larger Policy, dioceses should clearly indicate the location of these documents. A Policy section located on a Safe Environment or a Child Protection webpage could include these Codes of Conduct. Consistency of content in CoCs across all dioceses would be a best practice.

CBAR reporting: Catholic Bishop Abuse Reporting service should be notified of the deficiencies found in links that are posted on many diocesan websites. Each diocese should frequently check if the link to CBAR is active.

Background Checks: Annual or more frequent criminal history checks are best practice to identify potential risks to children. Policies should include actions to be taken if there is a positive result in these checks.

Measuring and Ranking Diocesan Safe Environment Programs: 2025

Prevention Education and Training: Mandates for training of international and visiting clergy should be clearly stated within policies under this category. Forms for these populations to request permission to provide services within a diocese should be readily available. And instructions for completion and submission of the forms should be noted in the policies.

Diocesan Review Boards: Posting names of members and their credentials and length of appointment provides transparency into these majority-lay boards.

Published List of Credibly Accused Clergy: Enforcement of the mandatory publication of these lists by all U.S. dioceses is essential in abuse prevention measures. Completeness and accuracy of each list must likewise be verified frequently, perhaps by an organization outside of the USCCB.

Victim Assistance information: Every diocese must list the VAC and contact information according to the Charter and Norms. Full compliance should be checked periodically and websites updated as needed.

Website maintenance: Updates to safeguarding-related content must be ongoing to ensure utmost protection of children.

An Important Reminder

No matter what the bishops do, individually or via the USCCB, children face the greatest dangers at the parish level. Parishioners must play a key role to safeguard children in our parishes.

- ❖ Parishioners should work with diocesan and parish safe environment personnel to bolster safety guidelines at the diocesan level.
- ❖ Parishioners must ensure that safeguarding measures are carried out in their local faith communities.

Alive in the life of Jesus, the entire People of God can transform into a sacramental community where children, youth, and the vulnerable are nurtured and protected in safe environments.
